

WHY PREPARE FOR THE SAT or ACT?

1. The SAT has had a new format since March 2016. Our prep classes have been updated to train students for the new test.
2. The global economy is making college admissions more competitive. A high standardized test score is an essential part of a competitive college application. The national average SAT score is around 1000 out of 1600, ACT is around 21 out of 34. Competitive colleges often require SAT scores over 1350 and ACT scores over 30. Are you ready?
3. High scores require more than just knowledge. Familiarity with the test format and test taking practice have been proven to improve scores.
4. The mathematics knowledge needed for these tests is mostly upper middle school grade level. Most students are rusty with these skills and need extensive review and practice.
5. Good essay writing skills are a must to score high in the new SAT and the ACT (with writing). Can you write a two page essay on a prompt that you saw only a minute ago?
6. A great vocabulary is a must for the tests. Learning the meanings of words such as “fulminate” and “stentorian” is just the starting point.
7. Most competitive colleges take the best scores in each individual subject from multiple tests. So even those who have already taken either test once or twice can benefit from extra preparation and retaking the test.

SAT and ACT Prep Mini Courses

Our Mini Courses are designed to familiarize students with the test format, and provide a quick overview of all three areas covered by the tests – Reading, Writing, and Mathematics, as well as Science for ACT. The February SAT course can be used to prepare for the PSAT 10 test. The classes will cover basic areas such as vocabulary, grammar, reading comprehension, and essay writing. They also cover all the mathematics principles that are most often covered in the New SAT, and data processing skills required for ACT Science. These core skills will be reinforced with practice exercises, in-class reviews, and homework assignments. Taught in four sessions over four Sunday afternoons, these courses are ideal for familiarizing with the test format in a short period of time.

Our classes are taught in small groups, not exceeding 15 students, by experienced coaches who have coached over 400 students. Our highest SAT scores include a perfect 2400(old format), and a few over 2300. We have several perfect 800s in individual subjects: Math, Reading and Writing. Our highest ACT score is 34, with a perfect 36 in Science.

We offer test prep classes several times a year. Please follow our website for announcements as they get scheduled.
